Common Market - France: (Rumors are circulating in Western Europe that France may soon propose some kind of limited UK-EEC economic agreement which would not entail an extension of British political influence on the continent.)

(The counselor of the New Zealand Embassy in Paris--who has had extensive contacts with French officials recently--reports that a working party within the French Government is now preparing the details of such an offer.)

(According to the West German Embassy in Paris, the German press has also received reports of French interest in an EEC commercial treaty with Britain that would be linked to steps among the Six to accelerate implementation of the EEC treaty. De Gaulle may feel that some new gesture in this direction would strengthen his hand in dealing with the other five EEC countries.)

(The French Government is doubtless aware that a commercial agreement giving British exports preferential treatment in the EEC market would pose a problem for the US, which has in the past opposed any UK-EEC arrangement potentially injurious to US traders unless such an arrangement had the offsetting advantage of furthering the political integration of Western Europe.)
